Wynot Tribune: B. R. Miller attended the pure bred sale of Duroc Jerseys on the John B. Evans ranch near Dakota City Monday. Pender Times: If you have done your business at the Pender State Bank you will find their records very complete in making up your income tax report. John Ashford, of Winnebago, who is credited with paying the largest income tax of any man in Thurston county, was in town yesterday. When asked why he should be out such a day replied that "I couldn't do anything at home on account of the storm—so I just run over to see you folks."

Allen News: Clyde Crego spent Sunday with his wife at Dakota City. T. J. Overboe attended the John B. Evans sale of pure bred Durocs at Dakota City Monday. William Lamm and Cy Thompson were among those from here to attend the John B. Evans sale at Dakota City Monday. We started out to mention all that attended the hog sale at Dakota City Monday, but gave up in despair after noticing that practically all farmers and a lot that weren't farmers, were going down for that purpose. A few that have not been mentioned elsewhere are L. K. Wharton, Harry Benstead and Cleo Brownell.

DANCING PAVILION ERECTED IN LAKE TO DODGE LAW

When the gayeties of a park in South Sioux City, Neb., were jeopardized at the height of the season by the enactment of an ordinance prohibiting Sunday evening dancing, a pavilion was established some 20 or 30 feet outside the corporate limits of the municipality. The resort is situated on the bank of Crystal lake, the shore of which is one of the boundary lines of the town. Within twelve hours after the council took its action, carpenters were at work constructing a new dancing pavilion on concrete piers placed in the shallow water close to the shore. By the end of the week the structure was completed and on Sunday night the usual crowd of pleasure seekers danced without interruption.

Katherine Backer, of Randolph, Rev. C. C. Collins, of Dixon, officiating. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Becker, of Randolph, while the groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ford, of this place. Anthony has been conducting a barber shop at Belden for some months, and has a home prepared there for his bride. Miss Mary Wingert, of Randolph, was bridesmaid, and Frederick Backer, brother of the bride, was best man. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Nick Wingert, in which twenty relatives participated. The dining room was decorated with pink and white flowers and crepe ribbon. The young people left on the eleven o'clock train for a week's visit with relatives at Sioux City and Merrill, Ia. Mrs. H. H. Killackey, of Bloomfield, sister of the groom, Miss Mary Myers, Sioux City, aunt of the groom, and a brother, Charles Ford, of Sioux City, were out of town guests.

Wakefield Republican: Mrs. Rad Larson, of Coleridge, spent Thursday in Wakefield. Frank Barto made a trip to Omaha and Fremont the last of the week on business. Misses Anna and Grace Kay and Ella Linder went to South Sioux City Saturday to spend Sunday with Mrs. Art Larson. Art Larson, of South Sioux City, and Edgar Larson, of the western part of this state, came Sunday to visit with home folks, Mr. and Mrs. John Larson. One of the best sales in the country was held at Dakota City Monday. The sale comprised a bunch of Duroc Jersey hogs, which sold at an average of $169.50. W. H. Neely, of Wayne, and J. R. Thompson, of Merrill, Ia., were the auctioneers. They divided time on the block. The editor of the Homer Star bemoans the fact that there are some people paying income taxes who have not paid their subscription to The Star. Cheer up, Heinie, we're all in the same fix. Didn't you know that a man who has so much wealth that he is compelled to pay income tax hasn't time to worry about little things like the size of a dollar or a dollar and a half?

Sioux City Journal, 16: Lieut. Frederick Roost, commander of the One hundred and Thirty-fourth Ambulance company, formerly Iowa Ambulance company No. 1, arrived in Sioux City yesterday from Camp Cody, N. M. Lieut. Roost stated that there are several vacancies in his company and that he is anxious to enlist Sioux City young men to fill the places before the unit departs for France. Lieut. Roost was granted a furlough by the war department in order that he might attend to business affairs here. Homer Rodeheaver, Billy Sunday's "golden throated" choirmaster, whose attentions to Miss Georgia W. Jay, a Sioux City girl, cost him a $20,000 verdict in a Chicago court in 1914, is to wed, according to a press dispatch received today by The Journal. Miss May Peterson, of the Metropolitan Opera company, of New York, has consented to become Mrs. Rodeheaver, according to the report. Incidentally, it became known that Mr. Rodeheaver settled with Miss Jay for $5,000. Rodeheaver became widely known in church circles as Sunday's chorister. Nine years ago, while an obscure singer, he came to Sioux City with George Biederwolf, an evangelist, who conducted a series of meetings in a tabernacle at tenth and Nebraska streets. It was there while directing choruses and receiving repentants that Mr. Rodeheaver met Miss Jay, who lived at 105 Fourteenth street and was a stenographer for Walter Bros., live stock commission merchants. They became friends, Miss Jay alleged in her suit which was filed in Chicago, and he proposed marriage to her and was accepted. Later, she declared, he refused to marry her because marriage would interfere with his career. Taxicab rides, long strolls, discussion of future plans figured largely in the testimony of Miss Jay. A Chicago jury awarded Miss Jay $20,000 as heart balm. The judge set the verdict aside and ordered a new trial. But before the date of the hearing on the motion was reached a settlement was made. It was announced at that time that the amount of the settlement was to be kept secret by both parties. In connection with the reported Rodeheaver-Peterson engagement, however, it was learned that Rodeheaver paid Miss Jay approximately $5,000. Miss Jay now lives in Chicago.

WAR BREAD PROJECT

Nebraska girls can help Uncle Sam win the war by joining the war bread project and learning to save wheat flour. The war bread project consists of nine exercises, which may be completed as rapidly as a girl can do the work. The exercises are baking bread, muffins, cookies, puddings, etc., with recipes that save wheat flour. The work is to be done by the girls at home. Members must be old enough to do the work and follow written instructions, and not more than eighteen years of age. Others, who want the lessons, may become associate members but may not compete for honors. Thru cooperation with the state department of public instruction and the state high school inspector, school credit in both grades and the high school may be arranged for the satisfactory completion of this project. For further information write to Extension Service, Junior Section, University Farm, Lincoln, Neb.

RESEARCH BULLETIN

Research bulletin No. 11, "Relation of Size of Seed and Sprout Value to the Yield of Small Grain Crops," has just come from the press and is now available for general distribution. The bulletin, which contains over 70 pages, describes several years' experiments conducted along that line at the university of Nebraska, together with a brief review of work at other institutions. For free copies address Bulletin Clerk, University Farm, Lincoln, Neb.

CARE OF HOGS

To keep hogs free from lice in winter use the "rubbing post" of crude oil, or sprinkle the hogs and bedding with naphthalene flakes once every two weeks, according to extension specialists of the University of Nebraska. Do not allow the hogs to sleep in the manure pile, but provide dry quarters for them. Also warm the slops and drinking water. The following tonic is a good conditioner, is offensive to worms, and supplies mineral matter:

Glauber salts 3 parts, copperas 3 parts, sal soda 3 parts, common salt 3 parts, charcoal 4 parts, sulphur 1 part. Feed in self-feeder.

CANE SUGAR FOR CURING PORK

Brown sugar for curing pork is unobtainable in many localities this year. Cane sugar may be substituted, according to animal husbandry extension specialists. Molasses can be used in the proportion of three pounds of molasses to every two pounds of sugar. One must take care that the molasses used has an agreeable flavor. Standard recipes for curing meat follow:

Brine cure—For every 100 pounds of meat, 2 pounds cane sugar, 2 ounces salt, 5 gallons water. Dry cure—For every 100 pounds of meat, 5 pounds salt, 2 pounds sugar, 2 ounces salt.

DAIRY REFERENCE CIRCULAR

The department of dairy husbandry of the University of Nebraska has just completed an interesting compilation of dairy literature which should be of special value to those interested in dairy work. The references cover practically all phases of the dairy industry. Attention is called to the bulletins published by the Nebraska dairy department and the U. S. Dairy Division. The circular also includes a list of dairy papers and books together with addresses of publishers. This list will be sent free on request.
